

TREVOR LOVE

INSTRUCTOR

Dive Qualifications

- PADI Master scuba diver trainer
- 11 PADI Speciality instructor ratings
- Emergency First Response instructor
- Emergency First Response care for children instructor
- SSI Open water instructor
- 10 SSI Speciality instructor rating.

I first qualified as an Open Water diver in 2012 with Robin Hood Watersports so that I could dive on holiday in Fiji. Whilst I was in Fiji I completed my PADI Advanced Open Water Diver certification as was lucky enough to dive in a Shark Marine Reserve with Bull Sharks. From that point on I was hooked on SCUBA diving and over the next few years I enjoyed several holidays in the UK, Malta, Lanzarote and Egypt following my love of the underwater world.

In 2015 I took the plunge and made the decision to become a PADI Pro. I undertook my Divemaster course with Robin Hood Watersports. The course was great and allowed me to learn at my own pace. I didn't stop there and after a lot more training and revision I then became a PADI Open Water Scuba Instructor in 2016.

As an Instructor there's no greater pleasure than to see new divers progress, refining their skills and increasing their knowledge to become better divers.

I love underwater photography and videography, it's fantastic to capture the wildlife in their natural environment and watching how they interact with each other. On my most recent trip to the Maldives I was lucky enough to see and film Whale Sharks, Giant oceanic Manta Rays, Nurse Sharks, White tip and Black Tip Reef Sharks and finally Silvertip Sharks.

My favourite UK diving spot is the Farne Islands where we are lucky to have a huge grey seal colony and if you're lucky enough they will come to investigate you

